This week

Our unSpecial Guest today is Lion PP Ross OLNEY, who will be talking (and talking, and talking, and talking) about "Each of your has a book in you." Considering that Lion Ross has written over a hundred books, he could probably give this speech in his sleep — rather than in ours.

A contingent from the Ventura Downtown Lions Club will be visiting us and Lion RC Jeff ROUNDY will have a very few words about the convention.

Next week

This is 100% of what Lion 1VP Dennis AMICK provided to your BE: "Next weeks presentation will be by the Cabrillo Economic Development Center." Speaker??? Topic??? Who knows???

Last week

Dr. Irene Pinkard and Dawn Harper talked about how the college tour enriches the lives of students. Dawn went on the tour several years ago and is a graduate of Grambling College.

Winners

Lion Dick MAGGIO has Free Fines, while Lion David MIGOCKI is our Greeter. Lion Loyal FRAZIER wasn't here to collect his $5, so Lion Roland STEELE lost his chance at $10 by not being here. Lion Roland just received his 50 year pin from International. His son, Bob, will be delivering it later this month. Lion BE/T Toby SCOTT attempted to gain what is rightfully his, the $500.50 on the Mad Marble Malarkey, but was denied justice.

Joe Stelling

Former Noontimer, Joe Stelling, died of a heart attack Sunday. His funeral was this morning. Unlike some current Noontimers who claim to have been President of the club, Joe actually was a President and a damn good one at that. He left the Noontimers when he was transferred to the East coast and the club has never been the same again. Joe's big interest as President was our sponsorship of the Junior Miss Pageant. He eventually became executive director of Junior Miss after his term was over.

Joe is survived by his wife Patricia. Noontimer gluttons will recall with huge fondness the wonderful cheesecakes Patricia used to provide for Noontimer events. At one time she ran a bakery in town.

And we can't fine Joe because even his obituary mentioned that he had been 2nd VP, 1st VP and President of the Noontimers.
